1. SITUATION

a. For problem purposes the island of VIEQUES represents the Republic of VIEQUES, a country with a long history of friendly relations with the United States. Increasing political dissension over the past five years has resulted in suspension of constitutional government and rule by a military junta. Economic conditions have deteriorated and the junta, in order to remain in power, has negotiated for and is receiving economic and military aid from nations unfriendly to the Organization of American States (OAS). The direct threat of covert subversion and overt aggression from this base of operations has resulted in a decision by the OAS to restore constitutional government in VIEQUES through direct military action. The population of VIEQUES is 85,000 of which 21,000 reside in the capitol city, ISABEL SEGUNDA.

b. References (c) and (d) contain detailed description of the area of operations.

b. Determine if the enemy will defend BLUE and/or RED beach. If so, by what means? In what strength?

c. Determine if the enemy will conduct mine warfare. If so, where? What types? What methods of use, pattern and density?

d. Determine if the enemy will employ chemical warfare agents. If so, How? Where? What types?

e. Determine the numbers and identities of U. S. Nationals in VILLEFRANCHE.

f. Determine if any foreign mercenaries are employed by the enemy. If so, how many? Who are they? This includes military, political and technical advisors.

g. Determine if the enemy will employ guerrilla warfare tactics. If so, how? What para-military forces can he muster? Where? Who are their leaders?

h. Determine the reaction of the local populace to our landings. If hostile, to what degree will it affect our operations?

i. Determine the maximum number of civilian refugees who might need handling during the first three days of operations.

3. RECONNAISSANCE AND OBSERVATION MISSIONS

a. Orders to subordinate units.
